CTHULHU INTERNATIONAL TIMELINE

LEGEND

PHE = Prehistoric Era
BCE = Before Common Era
CE = Common Era

300,000,000 BCE: Reptiles first appear on the Earth in the Carboniferous Period.

275,000,000 PHE/BCE: The first Serpent People appear during the Permian Period. The Great Old One, Yig. Is said to be the Father of all Serpents, and so the Serpent People worshipped him from the first. Legends say that these early Serpent People formed their First Empire in Valusia, a fertile land near the center of the super-continent of Pangaea. This empire was based on sorcery and alchemy, and at its height it must have ruled much of the Paleozoic world. How many of these legends are true can not be said. Records of the Elder Things and Yithians who inhabited the Earth at the time say little of these early Serpent People.

225,000,000 PHE/BCE: The Rise of the Dinosaurs, the collapse of the First Empire of the Serpent People.

5,000,000 PHE/BCE: Yothic civilization was at its greatest height ever. The Serpent People had become prodigious scientists, able to create other life forms at whim. Life was luxury, joyfully lived. Then Yoth's doom was uncovered, when curious explorers discovered the path to blackly litten N'Kai. There they found great altars to Tsathoggua. The toad-god possessed tremendous power and wisdom and many Serpent People turned away from Yig to worship him. Yig did not look kindly on his people abandoning him, and so he cursed them. The Serpent People of Yoth devolved, losing their speech, their limbs, and their intelligence. They became the serpents that they had once been millennia before.

Only the faithful escaped Yig's curse. The high priest Sss;haa led Yig's true worshippers out of Yoth. They traveled to Hyperborea, a land in the north, where they dwelled deep below Mount Voormithadreth. Under Voormithadreth, the Serpent People's greatest scientific civilization continued to prosper. By this time, they had become pitiless creatures of near pure intelligence. They had no morals, and their only law was that curiosity must always be satisfied. The Serpent People of Hyperborea's greatest achievements continued to be in genetic engineering. It is believed that the Voormis who ruled the surface of Hyperborea from approximately 3 million years ago were their creation. However, the Voormis' special affiliation with Tsathoggua shows that even among the supposedly faithful, the taint of the toad-god remained.

At the time of the Serpent People migration, conditions were also changing upon the surface. The dinosaurs which had destroyed the First Empire were long gone. The mammals had begun to rise. In Africa, the first hominids were evolving; they were the first true ancestors of man.

After fleeing Hyperborea the Serpent People tried to form a kingdom upon the newly risen land of Lemuria. Unfortunately they found themselves in contention with the new-born human race.

1,700,000 PHE/BCE: The exact fate of the Serpent People of Hyperborea is unknown, their Voormis were swept aside by the cold of Ithaqua.

1,000,000 PHE/BCE: The human Hyperboreans arrive and form a new civilization.

750,000 PHE/BCE: The humans of Hyperborea are gone. Today, the merest remnant of Hyperborea forms Greenland.

500,000 PHE/BCE: The Serpent People civilization has fallen into ruin. Fleeing even further south the Serpent People came to the Thurian Continent. Here they were finally able to reform their Empire. They named it the Second Empire, and it was centered in Valusia, a land named after a legend. Many wars were fought, but eventually the men of the Thurian Continent were consigned to thralldom. Some fled to less oppressive realms, but at the center of the world the Serpent People ruled.

Unfortunately, the Age of Reptiles was over, and the Age of Mammals had already begun. The Serpent People could oppress the most primitive humans, but they were doomed by the relentless march of evolution. It took a million years or more, but the earliest human civilization arose: Kamelia, Verulia, Grondor, Thule, Commoria, Atlantis, and Lemuria. After a hundred wars, the Second Empire of the Serpent People was destroyed. Thereafter, Valusia was ruled by humans. Some Serpent People fled to the south of the Thurian Continent to create a new kingdom, but most went underground, hibernated, or simply died.

The Serpent People who remained were unwilling to give up their mastery of the world. Where strength had failed, they turned instead to deceit. Using their powers of disguise, they replaced humans of power and ruled in their stead. For aeons they were successful, but that would eventually end in 18,000 BCE.

18,000 PHE/BCE: An Atlantean by the name of Kull leads an uprising against the Serpent People, bringing their schemes to an end. Shortly after the rule of Kull, a great cataclysm shook the Thurian Continent. It was the beginning of the end for the Serpent People's southern kingdom.

16,500 PHE/BCE: Lemurian survivors, hardened by centuries of disaster and slavery, fell upon the Serpent People cities that had been spared by the cataclysm. The Serpent People's southern kingdom was destroyed. However, Stygia, the human country formed from its ashes, would carry forward many of their beliefs, including the worship of Yig.

The last remnants of the Serpent People fled southward, stopping only when they reached the ocean. Here, they founded one last city, Yanyoga. It had none of the grandeur of its predecessors. It lasted for thousands of years, but in 10,000 BCE it too was destroyed, by a Cimmerian descendant of Kull.

Since then, the history of the world has scarcely been touched by the Serpent People. They still lurk, dwelling in the deepest caverns, sometimes even hiding among us, but their power has been broken.

10,500 BCE: The Pyramids of Egypt are built.

10,000 BCE: The Serpent People of the city of Yanyoga is destroyed by a Cimmerian descendant of Kull.

6,512 BCE: The Demon Pharaoh, Menkuhor appears leading an army of well over 100,000 soldiers and conquers Egypt. After installing himself as Pharaoh, he resurrects the Cult of the Black Pharaoh and begins sacrificing thousands of Egyptians to his dark god, Nyarlathotep.

6,500 BCE: The Black Pyramid of Menkuhor "The Demon Pharaoh" is constructed in a man-made cavern beneath the Giza Plateau. Also erected is the Black Obelisk of Menkuhor "The Nightbringer", and the Temple of the Night dedicated to the Black Pharaoh; Nyarlathotep. . It was only through the combined might of the First Atlantean Empire that Menkuhor was put down. And even then, we could not destroy him. The dark ritual that had created him had created a monster that defied death itself. There was no true death for Menkuhor, it was only through a long forgotten ritual that the Atlantean Sorcerers of the time were able to seal him in a massive crystal. From that point on, the Atlantean Senate knew the end was in sight. The Egyptians, after the fall of their Demon Pharaoh, set about to destroy any record of his existence. And so that dark time was forgotten by the Egyptians within three generations.

1,150 BCE: Numbia conquers Egypt.

50 BCE: Cleopatra assumes the throne of Egypt.

124 CE: Lord Ramius, one of the few remaining great leaders of the Atlantean people in Italy would begin a war campaign against all of the feuding Atlanteans of Italy and the surrounding regions. Lord Ramius claimed all of this was done in an attempt to reunite the Atlantean race.

130 CE: No less than 17 of the Atlantean families residing within Southern Italy and Sicily would be wiped out by Lord Ramius in his attempt to unite and bring a lasting peace to the feuding Atlantean vampiric families of Southern Italy and Sicily.

151 CE: Lord Ramius' dream of a united Atlantean race would be realized in the year. It would be in this year that the leaders of the families that claimed fealty to Lord Ramius and his cause would unite to form the first of the Houses of the Imperium Ex Atlantia, House Ramius.

1578, September CE: Francis Drake passes through the Straights of Megellan only to find himself blown significantly southward due to a tremendous storm in the Pacific. This event proved that Tierra del Fuego was separated from any southern continent and the passageway came to be known as the "Drake Passage".

1592, August CE: The Englishman John Davis, in the DESIRE, discovered the Falkland Islands. This was a tragic expedition as the crew were forced to eat some 14,000 penguins which they were forced to kill for food. A greenish fog was seen to slowly envelop the ship, the USS Eldridge, concealing it from view. Then the fog itself is said to have disappeared, taking the Eldridge with it, leaving only the undisturbed water where the ship had once been anchored in Philadelphia Harbor only moments before.

When the Eldridge reappeared it the personnel that boarded the ship found the crew above deck to be disoriented and nauseous. The Navy removed the crew, and shortly after obtained another. In the end, the Navy decided that they only wanted radar invisibility, and the equipment was altered.

1943, October CE: The National Defense Research Council and the US Navy conducts a test of the Tillinghast Resonator aboard the Destroyer Escort USS Eldridge, resulting in disaster. A few years later, Carl M. 1943, October 28th CE : At 17:15 hours, the final test on the Eldridge was performed. The electromagnetic field generators were turned on again, and the Eldridge became near-invisible; only a faint outline of the hull remained visible in the water. Everything was fine for the first few seconds, and then, in a blinding blue flash, the ship completely vanished. Within seconds it reappeared miles away, in Norfolk, Virginia, and was seen for several minutes. The Eldridge then disappeared from Norfolk as mysteriously as it had arrived, and reappeared back in Philadelphia Naval Yard. This time the sailors were violently sick. Some of the crew were simply "missing" never to return. Some went crazy, but, strangest of all, five men were fused to the metal in the ship's structure. The men that survived were never the same again. Those that lived were discharged as "mentally unfit" for duty, regardless of their true condition.

So, what had begun as an experiment in electronic camouflage, ended up as an accidental teleportation of an entire ship and crew, to a distant location and back again, all in a matter of minutes! Because of the experiment performed on the USS Eldridge in Philadelphia, a lone Ensign by the name of Julian Bishop found himself alone on a distant beach on the coast line of new England. Not long after reporting back into the Dept. of the Navy about what occurred, Bishop was transferred to the OSS to work with P Division.

Edgar and company are attacked by a plant creature that melts his car before he is able to destroy it.

1998, September 5th - 6th CE : Edgar and his associates site see around Boston while waiting for the funeral of the late Mr. Macalaster. Visiting the Sailors Club on the docks of Boston Harbor and the dance club "The Rage" in downtown Boston. While at the dance club, Gurney becomes enthralled by a woman there, Edgar frees him from her "spell" and shortly thereafter falls under her sway himself. With the assistance of Doctor Robert Heck of Arkham MA, Edgar and his associates along with Doctor Heck escape the dance club into the night of Boston. That night when they retreat back to their hotel and hold up there for the night. During that evening, Edgar awakens to find a greenish mist hovering above Gurney. He quickly falls back asleep believing it to be a dream. The following evening upon returning to their hotel from a day of exploring the city, they find the woman that was at the dance club being beaten into a bloody pulp in their room by a knight-like creature that could only be seen in a mirror. Just as the creature is about to deal its death blow, the woman changes into a fine green mist and escapes. Not long after, Edgar and company leave that hotel in search of another more secure location in the city. For no reason that any of them can understand, one of their number steps out into the Boston street into the path of a on coming bus killing himself.

1998, September 9th CE : The funeral of Adrian Macalaster at the Church and Cemetery of St. Lazarus in Boston. Edgar with the assistance of Doctor Heck investigate to church finding a stairway directly beneath the altar of the church. They find a room containing the records of the church along with a massive metallic seal on the floor bearing the seal of the Order of St. Lazarus. Also, by accident, under the seal they find a cavern with an underground river leading to the Atlantic Ocean. Gurney falls into the cavern and during their attempt to rescue him he is attacked by what appears to be humanoid fish creatures, Gurney is killed when a desk falls on him. The investigators leave Boston bound for Arkham for the reading of Mr. Macalaster's Last Will and Testament. They make a brief stop at Arkham hospital to care for the wounds they gained from their encounter with the fish-men, that is where they meet Jonathan Zameski; a soldier in the US Army that was himself on his way to Arkham for the reading of the Macalaster Will.

1998, September 10th CE : During the reading of the Will, Edgar poses as Gurney and find that he was left a letter and the deed to a house in Arkham. Charles Weinstein III is also at this meeting, as it turns out he is the nephew-by-marriage of Macalaster and he receives nothing from the estate. He is also removed from the Board of Directors of the Macalaster Foundation. Doctor Heck attends the reading of the Will as a representation for Miskatonic University, the university is given a sizeable donation from the Macalaster Foundation. Jonathan is left a WWII era jeep that the investigators leave the Macalaster Estate in.

After leaving the Macalaster Estate they travel back into the city of Arkham to find the house that Macalaster left and to retrieve the Book of Dorrathe before Weinstein is able to get his hands on it. While at the house they find the book and are also attacked by a supernatural knight-like creature that nearly kills Edgar in its attempt to gain the book.

1998, September 11th CE : Edgar is taken to Arkham hospital to recover from the wounds he received from the giant knight-like creature. While in the hospital he is approached by Weinstein in another attempt to gain the book by purchase or threat. He is also approached by the woman that changed into the mist, who was greatly angered to have her plaything; Gurney, taken away from her. As it turns out she was a vampire and attempted to drain Edgar dry until the pain killers he was on drove her away.

1998, September 15th CE : Edgar is released from Arkham Hospital, he and his associates proceed to hide out at a run down hotel on the outskirts of Arkham. While there they make plans on how to handle the quest set before them. While there, Jonathan's new car is attacked by a plant creature similar to the one that attacked Edgar in Cincinnati. Edgar is able to destroy the creature using some gasoline from a station across the street, destroying Jonathan's new car in the process. A police officer and his car are also destroyed by the creature, only a box of half smoldering donuts survives the explosion.

1998, September 15th CE : Edgar and company return to Arkham hospital to deliver two journalists that were caught in the middle of the battle. While in the Waiting Room of the Hospital, Edgar and his associates are approached by a Commander Julian Bishop of the United States Navy, he begins quietly questioning Edgar on his experiences with the Cthulhu Mythos. Realizing the danger that Edgar and company were in, Julian asks them to leave with them before more "nasties" come looking for them in a place that they couldn't possibly fight them off in, namely the hospital.

They all get into a black sedan and Bishop drives them to a deserted field on the outskirts of Arkham to and awaiting helicopter. Before they are able to take off, a triangular aircraft approaches them at high speed and begins firing on their chopper with some kind of sonic weapon. Seemingly out of no where another black helicopter appears and drives the triangular aircraft away. 45 minutes later Bishop, Edgar and his associates land on board the flying fortress known as POINT ZERO. Once there, Bishop offers them a chance to hunt down those horrors with the help of his organization. Edgar and company accept his offer and join the ranks of the Arkham GROUP .

1998, September 16th CE : Edgar and his Beta Team are sent to New Orleans via "Gate" to track down some leads on an item they need to enter the Dreamlands called the "Scepter of Dreams". While at a Occult shop in the French Quarter, Edgar makes contact with a Voodoo Priestess that helps him make contact with Baron Samedi to gain possession of the scepter. While Edgar is on his dream quest in the deadlands, his associates are attacked by two men in black suits. Most of the Occult shop is destroyed in the battle, but both of their attackers are killed in the fire fight. After their deaths, both bodies burst into flames and disintegrate in front of the team. Upon completing his dream quest, Edgar returns with the Scepter of Dreams and the team has to take a bystander; Nathan Castle, into custody for the duration.

1998, September 23th CE : Edgar's Beta Team is equipped and briefed for Operation DREAMSCAPE. Their mission is to stop Charles Weinstein III from bringing the Crystal Skulls back together in the Cathedral of Dreams in the Dreamlands, thereby bringing about the end of the world. Already weird things have begun occurring in the real world, three airliners have simply vanished and a dense wall of clouds is blocking the sun from shining worldwide.

1998, September 24th CE : Operation DREAMSCAPE begins with Edgar's Beta Team being taken to Tumbleweed New Mexico, supposedly there is a portal to the Dreamlands somewhere near the town. While in Tumbleweed they meet the one remaining resident of Tumbleweed, an old man by the name of Jasper O'Conley. The following day the town is attacked by two Russian HIND helicopter, destroying most of the town in the process. In their escape, Jasper leads the team to the Dream Gate they were looking for and to the last remaining Crystal Skull that Weinstein hasn't gotten his hands on.

1998, September 25th - 26th CE : Edgar and his team journey through the Dreamlands in a race to stop Weinstein from reuniting the Skulls. In the Dreamlands, they journey took them 3 months to complete, while in the real world it was done in the time of a two days. In the end, Operation DREAMSCAPE is considered a success and Weinstein is stopped. But it wasn't Edgar or his team that stopped Weinstein, it was "N" and "Y" that did for reasons Edgar and the Arkham GROUP still don't understand.

1998, December 16th CE : Edgar is called back into active duty and assigned a new partner, Desmond Llewellyn of Her Majesty's Secret Service. They are to go to Los Angeles to find out why another Beta Team hasn't reported in. They arrive in LA via "Gate" and find the house that the Agents were in has been turned into a slaughter house. Blood and the remains of human body parts are every where, along with a cryptic note for Commander Bishop. They also find splatters of some kind of purplish liquid all over the place, which they can only assume to be some kind of blood from the attackers of their Agents. After investigating the house, Edgar and Desmond use their "green cards" to call up a "Gate" to bring them back to POINT ZERO. When the "Gate" appears they step through only to find that they are not in the place they wanted to be. They find themselves in a stone corridor, within a moment of them stepping through the "Gate", they are attacked by two more men in black and they retreat back through the "Gate". This time finding themselves back in POINT ZERO. Commander Bishop order that the "Gate" be shut down until they can figure out just what went wrong.

1998, December 19th - 22nd CE: Edgar and Desmond and the rest of their Beta Team; Mr. Blue, Dr. Nicholas Jameson and Victor Kruger of the ATF, are sent to Colorado to investigate the murders several seemingly unconnected individuals. They find out during the course of their investigation that all of the deceased were in some way responsible for the trying and sentencing of a dead convict named Damon Phelps. While in Denver they realize that the only surviving person responsible for sending Phelps to prison was the District Attorney who was away at a mountain retreat for some type of banquet dinner. Edgar and Desmond race into the mountains in an attempt to save the man's life. On their way to the secluded hotel, a blizzard develops and they are force to walk to the rest of the way to the hotel. Once they arrive, they find the intended victim is still alive and approach him telling him that his life is in danger that they have been sent to protect him. Eventually he dies anyway, and Edgar and Desmond are forced to face off with a killer that can get inside peoples minds and that can jump bodies. After a harrowing battle, Desmond and Edgar are able to kill Damon and they leave the hotel after the storm breaks two days later.

Shortly after returning from the mountains, Edgar and Desmond hook back up with the rest of their team. Not long after it, they are catapulted into a dark future where both Dr. Nicholas Jameson and Victor Kruger of the ATF are killed by an irradiated blob creature with lots of tentacles, eyes, and mouths. Mr. Blue loses the lower half of his leg to the creature. While there, they find a 17 year old boy hiding in the mountains. After befriendng him they find out that the time they are currently in is about 100 years after World War III. Somehow Edgar, Desmond, Mr. Blue and the boy; Sammy are able to escape back to their own time through another "Gate".

While there a hurricane blows through, Desmond finds out that Weinstein is still alive and has put a price on Edgar's head. Desmond flies down to the Bahamas to rescue them from a Russian Merc that Weinstein sent for Edgar. In rescuing Edgar, some huge creature eats the Russian Mercenary's sea plane and Edgar and the rest of his team escape into the interior of the island. They hide inside a cave that turns out to be an ancient temple just as the hurricane blows through. While in the temple, they begin hearing strange noises coming from the tree line outside and something begins hurling coral spears at them. They hide further back in the cave where they find a "Gate" room hidden behind some rubble. One of the investigators has a moment or enlightenment (or madness) and cuts his hand and bleeds on the "Gate" on the stone floor; he immediately disappears and shortly there after the rest of the team follows him. Once through the "Gate" they find themselves in a city of those half man half fish creatures and unable to not obey they commands of their captors. They are experimented on and not long after they escape with the help of a Sigma Team that was sent to rescue them. Mr. Blue promptly has a nervous breakdown and has to be committed to a Mental Hospital after leaving the Bahamas.

1999, January 16th CE : Desmond receives a telegram from England requesting his return home. Edgar and the rest of the Team follow him to England at a distance. While Desmond is away dealing with personal issues, Edgar and his Beta Team have another run in with the Men in Black. totally altering his appearance and the hospital staff believes him to be Lt. Commander Vincent Truscani, a pilot in the United State Navy. Within a few hours of him waking up, Deputy Commander Thadius Daysfield of Gamma Section meets with him and explains that the changes were needed to protect his life and to keep him out of the hands of the Federal Authorities. He is told that a look alike is out there murdering people with the relic sword that was stolen from him while he was in London England. Doctor Heck under the mind control of Weinstein attacks the rest of the Team and has to be subdued. They are saved by what they can only believe to be another vampire because they never got to see their rescuer. After leaving the hotel they were in, they went to the local hospital to tend to Doc Heck's wounds.

1999, September 11th - 13th CE: Edgar and his Beta Team travel to Belize to investigate the dig that is under way at the Incan Pyramid that is there. On their way there, they receive assistance by the CIA in the form of a Gunnery Sgt. Thomas Beckett, the Deputy Commander of Sigma Section. Once they arrive at the dig site, they found 3 Russian HIND attack helicopters guarding the area along with 2 smaller attack helicopters. The team is captured while attempting to sneak into the site at night by none other than Weinstein. They are taken to a man named Jean Baptist and he gives them the chance to join him, of course they refuse his offer and Baptist orders Weinstein to have them killed as he leaves the dig for some unknown reason. Edgar and Desmond are able to escape with the help of some of the Russian Mercenaries that Weinstein believed to be loyal to Baptist. Commander Bishop takes a helicopter from POINT ZERO and flies down to Belize in an attempt to help save the Beta Team from certain death. While escaping the dig site, Edgar, Desmond, the rest of the Beta Team and their Russian rescuers steal one of the HIND helicopters, they use its missile launchers to destroy the dig site with Weinstein still in the temple wrestling with some ancient vampire that he had just awoken. While Bishop gets into the middle of a dog fight with the two smaller attack copters, his helicopter is shot down but not before he is able to take out the other two with the help of Edgar and friends.

1999 September 24th CE: Investigators Bradley McBride and Emily Brown of Beta Team "BlueSix" are sent to Los Angeles to investigate the mysterious suicide of FBI Agent Saint James, after he threw himself out of this 8th floor Branch Office window. Both Bradley and Emily check in with the Olympian Club to let the Arkham GROUP know they arrived. Their cover story is that they are Special Agents working for the FBI investigating the death of Special Agent Saint James.

1999 September 25th CE: Bradley and Emily continue their investigation of the death of Agent Saint James. Their investigation of his home turns up no real clues, on their way out, they are attacked by one of the Police Officers guarding the crime scene. Emily is shot through the leg and Bradley is forced to rush her to the nearest hospital in Riverside.

1999 September 26th CE: Investigators Collin McLir and Katherine Schincski arrive at Los Angeles International Airport, their mission is to assist Bradley in his investigation of the Saint James Case. Bradley and the rest of "BlueSix" go to the home of the Police Officer that fired on himself and Emily, once there they find the man's wife dead in the upstairs bathroom bathtub. They find the police officers body in the basement also dead. Immediately Bradley contacts POINT ZERO for a clean up crew to be sent to cover up the charnel house. The clean up crew comes in the house via a "gate" and proceeds to put the house to the torch., then leaves through another "gate". Bradley and "BlueSix" leave heading back to the Olympian Club located on Vennes Beach. When heading back they find that they are being tailed by who they believe to be the Maid of the Police Officer's family.

Once in the Olympian Club, they notify the Manager that there might be a situation. By this point it is too late, the Maid's body is found in the women's restroom, dead, by Katherine. She promptly has the restroom sealed off. Somewhere along the way, the Manager of the Olympian Club attacks Katherine behind the bar, shooting her in the leg, then attacks Collin when he attempts to assist her. After a struggle, the Manager escapes from the Olympian Club in the chaos of the crowd attempting to leave the club.

Later on that evening, after much investigation it is determined that this could only be the work of the dead psychic murderer, Damon Phelps, in an attempt to exact his own form of revenge against the Arkham GROUP for the death of his last host body.

1999 October 7th - 8th CE: Bradley McBride and "BlueSix" are assigned the mission of protecting a man that said he was defecting from the mysterious Illuminati, and that he was willing to share secret information regarding some planned operation of theirs. While on an Amtrak train bound from Houston Texas to Charleston South Carolina, the defector and "BlueSix" are attacked by a supernatural creature that seemed to be feeding off of the life force of Katherine. The defector is killed by the Skull and chain creature and then dispelled when Bradley destroys it with a blast from his AE-50 pistol.

While nearing Chicago, Bradley and Collin decide that it would be best if the Arkham GROUP sent a helicopter to get them off of the train before they reached Chicago and would be forced to answer questions they were not prepared to answer to the authorities. While on the roof of the train, Collin notices a black helicopter coming in from the deck to the south of them, he calls into AG to confirm that their ride was inbound. At this point Collin figures out that this black helicopter isn't their ride, he also can hear the sound of a mini gun charging itself to fire. Collin and Louis drop to the top of the train as the helicopter beginning firing on the train car they are in.

Below, Bradley and Katherine are making their way to the end of the train. Neither of them even notice the black helicopter coming in on them. By the time they look up, the black helicopter has already begun firing on the train. Both Bradley and Katherine are riddled full of bullets. Collin and Louis, seeing what happened to their comrades drop back into the train car through the hole in the roof made by the mini gun fire.

By this point, their ride arrives and is able to drive off the black helicopter. Both Bradley and Katherine are rushed to the nearest hospital in critical condition. Collin and Louis (Louis was more or less abducted by the team) proceed to the Olympian Club in Chicago with the briefcase that the defector had on him.

At the hospital, both Bradley and Katherine are rushed to the ER, with the hospital staff fully expecting both of them to die. While in the ER, through some miracle or dark miracle, both Bradley and Katherine are healed by some unknown power and the ER staff freaks out calling for the police. Both Bradley and Katherine escape from the hospital and make their way back to the Arkham Enterprises corporate office tower in Chicago. After hours of interrogation, Collin and two AG interrogators are able to determine that this is truly Bradley and Katherine. There is a meeting with Deputy Commander Alexandra Cassey of Alpha Section. It is decided from a map in the briefcase that the next destination of "BlueSix" will be Cairo Egypt to investigate the Tomb and Temple complex that "BlueFive" found earlier that year.

1999 October 10th CE: Katherine Schincski, a member of Beta Team BlueSix dies in a climbing accident while entering an Egyptian dig site.

1999 October 13th - 14th CE: BlueSix begins investigating an ancient tomb and temple complex located 1,000 feet under the Karnak Temple Complex. Beta Team Leader, Collin McLir is shot by one of this own team members for unknown reasons; and attacked by a vampire.

1999 October 15th CE: BlueSix assisted by a strike force made up of Unknown/possibly Illuminati (?) Mercenaries trek deep into the Egyptian desert to the south in an attempt to destroy the vampires that have taken thousands of Egyptians and Foreign citizens hostage in an ancient underground city. Collin kills the vampire that turned him; returning him to mortality. Commander Bishop with the remaining members of BlueFive assist BlueSix in escaping the underground city, fleeing into the desert in a stolen transport truck. That night Commander Bishop arranges for a submarine to meet them off the Egyptian coast to transport them away from Egypt back to the New England coast.

1999 October 22th CE: BlueSix arrives on the coast of New England in MA. As the team is disembarking, one of its newest members; Josey Jones the Egyptologist disappears and is not seen again.

1999 October 22rd CE: Bradley, Collin and Louis go to Bradley's home to find an address book in the hopes of finding someone to help them with their mission. Collin and Louis are kidnapped while Bradley is searching the upstairs floor. A friend of his, Carmen appears at his door telling him what she saw. And another woman, a southern lady approaches them telling them that she saw his friends attacked with what looked like a stun gun and that they were carted away in a black van. Bradley contacts his colleague Emily Brown, a former Operative of the Arkham GROUP for assistance. The southern woman attempts to follow Bradley and Carmen and ends up hospitalized after Bradley shoots out her motorcycle from under her.

After meeting with Emily, Bradley finds out the woman he attacked was a friend of hers. So he and Carmen trek back to the hospital to find her, only to find that she is not there. He receives a call from Laura telling him that she is waiting for him at the bar that he met Emily at. Once everyone got back together, Bradley laid down the cards for everyone present; telling them that the rapture was coming in 210 days and that only they could stop it.

Not long after this, they are attacked by three zombies that attempt to kill them. They flee to a Catholic Church down a few blocks and hide within it. The dead creatures break their way into the Church and continue attacking BlueSix. The last of the creatures is unexpectedly killed by a man named Maximilian Stoller. He tells the team if they wish to live to follow him.

1999 October 23th CE: Maximilian Stoller offers BlueSix a deal, he is willing to help them if they will help him rescue his twin daughters from the Illuminati's grasp. Bradley and Carmen agree to help him in return for his assistance.

1999 October 25th CE: BlueSix, led by Bradley McBride travel into northern New York on orders from Commander Bishop to use the old Refectory HQ to re-supply. Once into the underground complex, they are attacked by the AI: Black Bishop that is defending the facility. After fighting their way down to the computer core, Bradley is able to deactivate the computer with a special laser disc that Commander Bishop gave him. Bradley and his companion are gravely injured in the battle; Bradley losing his left arm to a mini gun, and his friend Carmen losing the ability to use her right arm.

1999 October 26th CE: Bradley and Carmen, badly injured leave the Refectory in search of medical assistance that only Maximilian Stoller can get them quickly. Maximilian Stoller drops Carmen off at a local hospital, then takes Bradley to some of his Illuminati associates in order to replace Bradley's missing arm. At gun point, a group of Illuminati doctors replace Bradley's left arm with a cybernetic replacement. Shortly thereafter, Bradley is out for the next four days.

1999 October 30th CE: Early Morning - Maximilian Stoller moves a very groggy Bradley into his van, then kills all of the doctors that worked on him in order to keep the rest of the Illuminati from finding out that Stoller is back in the game and that Bradley McBride is still alive. Not long after awakening, Bradley instructs Stoller to take him back to the Refectory. Once there, Bradley with Stoller in tow, re-enters the Refectory. This time around, there is a Arkham GROUP staff and security waiting inside. Stoller is taken into custody, and Commander Bishop and Bradley arrange for Carmen to be transported back to the Refectory. Once at the Refectory, Commander Bishop gives Carmen Johnson the choice of either joining the Arkham GROUP or being locked away in a mental asylum for the rest of her natural life, she chooses to join the Arkham GROUP.

1999 October 30th CE: Noon - Commander Bishop with the help of the Deputy Commander of Sigma Section plan for a raid on Dunwich, in an attempt to stop Jean-Baptiste Delarant from activating the third pyramid in the Dunwich hills. Bradley and Carmen, along with a detachment of Sigma soldiers begin readying themselves for the raid on Dunwich.

1999 October 30th CE: Late Afternoon-Early Evening - Bradley and Carmen with their Sigma Section support raid the town of Dunwich MA. They are dropped off outside of the town by Blackhawk Helicopters. Once inside the town, BlueSix and the Sigma Soldiers are attacked by hundreds of demon-like zombies much like the ones that attacked Bradley and Carmen in the Boston Church. After about 2 hours of firefight, Delarant tells Bradley that he has sent a sizeable force of what he calls "Necrosites" to destroy the town of Arkham. Upon hearing this, Bradley radios it into the Refectory. Commander Bishop pulls everyone back to their staging area where they landed. At that point, they are transported to Arkham where Commander Bishop meets them with what is remaining of the Sigma Section forces that were at the Refectory. From that point on, Commander Bishop and his Arkham GROUP forces fight off the Necrositic forces that were attacking the town. The attack finally ends in the early morning hours of the 31st.

1999 October 31st CE: Early Morning Hours - The Arkham GROUP, with Commander Bishop in the lead, and with the remaining members of BlueSix, Gate up to Point Zero in an attempt to re-take it from the Bishop look-alike that has been masquerading as Commander Bishop for the past 6-7 months. Within the period of 30 minutes, Point Zero is back under the command of the real Commander Julian Bishop. Bradley finds a "kill list" in the Point Zero database of Agents and Beta teams that are scheduled for deletion. Bradley makes the situation known to Bishop, who sends out the order to stand down all Omega operatives that are currently looking for the listed agents.

1999 October 31st CE: Noon - Deputy Commander Alexandra Cassey, brings two replacements up to Point Zero to fill the empty positions in BlueSix. Archaeologist; Erin Wolfe, and FBI Agent; Nicholas Hunter. Wolfe was working on a native American dig in New Mexico when Point Zero had her brought up. Agent Hunter was called into from Chicago, at this point he believes he is being assigned to a Joint-Federal-Private Taskforce. Once on Point Zero, Agents McBride and Johnson meet with Hunter and Wolfe. Their assignment is to go to New Orleans in an attempt to find leads at an Occult Shop in the French Quarter in finding a Crystal Skull and an ancient tome called the “Book of Dorrathe”. On the Flight to New Orleans, Hunter and Wolfe have a dream in which Milton speaks to them, asking them if the world is worth saving.

1999 October 31st CE: Late Afternoon – BlueSix arrives at New Orleans International Airport, they are taken by car to the Arkham GROUP New Orleans Branch Office in the French Quarter. While in New Orleans, Bradley has another run in with John Milton at a restaurant in the French Quarter, Milton buys Bradley’s table a bottle of the most expensive wine on tap and then proceeds to leave going his own way once again. After the restaurant, BlueSix decides to head up to the Gun Club just outside of town to work on their marksmanship, after that, they head back to the Branch Office.

1999 October 31st CE: Evening – Once back at the New Orleans Branch Office, BlueSix is attacked by what appears to be homeless people. Shortly into the battle, Bradley and Carmen realize that these attackers are in fact more Necrosites sent by Delarant. During the attack, Carmen kills one of the Necrosites and becomes infected by its demonic essence. For the rest of the evening, Carmen attempts to fight for control of her body against the necrositic invader that is attempting to take control of her. Toward 10pm, Carmen loses the battle and the Necrosite takes control of her body. She tries to attack Agent Hunter then escapes the Branch Office, taking refuge in the back alleyways across the street from the Branch Office. Bradley follows her into the Alleyways with the help of the Refectory tracking her through her AG Card. In a basement, Carmen attacks Bradley and he is forced to kill her. In the moments when her body is dead, Milton comes to her and asks her what she would give to come back and do it all over again. She agrees to serve him upon her next death. Meanwhile, Bradley kills the Necrositic Carmen a second time. At which point, she is resurrected by Milton and Bradley brings a very confused and horrified Carmen back to the Branch Office.

1999 October 31st – November 1st CE: Carmen is shipped back to the Refectory for some physical and psychological tests. Bradley and BlueSix head off to London England after hearing on CNN that there was a break in at the London Museum of Antiquities. Deputy Commander Cassey informs BlueSix that the London Museum was the last known location of two of the Crystal Skulls that the Arkham GROUP has been looking for. It just so happens that Erin has a friend working at the London Museum who is in charge of the Mesoamerican exhibit. Erin contacts her friend David while on route asking to meet with him.

1999 November 1st CE: Early Morning - BlueSix arrives in London and immediately proceeds to the Olympia Club where they contact the Manager of the club. The manager arranges for BlueSix to be invited to the Ball that is to be held at the Museum in the evening. He also arranges for Erin, Bradley and Nicholas to have proper attire for the Ball.

1999 November 1st CE: Noon – Erin meets with David at the Museum, she gets to meet David’s girlfriend; Anne (Amanda Stoller), and David and Erin proceed to a local pub for a bite to eat and a drink. Bradley and Nicholas tail Erin to the Pub where they find a seat where they can watch the two. After her lunch with David, David says his goodbyes and heads back to the Museum to get it ready for the Ball in the evening. Erin meets up with Bradley and Nicholas telling them about David and the exhibit. About how there was a break in at the Museum where the security guards were murdered and the Crystal Skulls were taken.

1999 November 1st CE: Evening – Bradley, Erin and Nicholas attend the Ball at the Museum. Once there, they have a run in with a certain Russian that Bradley vaguely remembers from the attack on the Amtrack train outside of Chicago. At the Ball, Erin dances with both Bradley and Nicholas for a time. While watching the dance floor, an Englishman approaches Nicholas and talks to him briefly, letting Nicholas know that he has a very good idea of why they are there without saying much. Bradley and Erin head up to the Mesoamerican Exhibit to hear David speak about it. The Russian gentleman with the foul smelling cigarettes following them up to the Exhibit. Nicholas watches as the Englishman; Sir Simon York, pays a waiter to spill a tray of drinks on the Russian gentlemen. The Russian storms away. Not long after David’s speech, Erin approaches him with Bradley in tow. David tells them that he is going to propose to Anne that night. Once David is away, Erin and Bradley head back to the main Ballroom floor. It is at this point that Bradley notices just who “Anna” is. When David and Anna leave the Ball, Bradley directs Erin and Nicholas to their limo and has it follow Anna and David’s car.

While watching David and Anna enter her apartment building, Bradley notices the Russian getting out of a car and arming himself with two silenced pistols. Bradley directs the limo to stop just down the street, where he, Erin and Nicholas exit the vehicle. Bradley follows the Russian up to the apartment building and into it. The Russian takes an elevator, Bradley take the stairs up to the floor that the Russian got off at. Bradley instructs Erin and Nicholas via his AG Card to make their way up to the floor he is on via the emergency stairs. When all of them are together, Bradley enters the hallway, and goes to the only open door on the floor. That is where he hears the Russian telling Anna to kill

David and she refuses. The Russian tells her that betrayal has only one penalty, and both the Russian and Anna struggle with the pistol he is carrying. Bradley bursts into the apartment and tries to shoot the Russian, and misses. Nicholas enters behind Bradley and there is a standoff between the Russian, Bradley and Nicholas. It ends with the Russian using Anna as a hostage and the Russian escapes out the window onto the landing strut of a helicopter outside.

1999 November 2nd CE: Early Morning – Bradley calls for a Gate to transport them to the London Olympian Club. Once there, they subdue Anna/Amanda Stoller and straightjacket her. In subduing her, Nicholas is almost killed by her. Not long afterwards, Erin tries to calm David down, Bradley decides to use a tranq dart instead. A few hours later, most of them has gotten their rest, they receive a message that Carmen will be rejoining them shortly. In a back alley of a nearby street, a Gate opens and Carmen walks out into London. On her way to the Olympian Club, Carmen begins noticing a lot of unusual activity, watchers watching the Olympian Club. She decides to not head directly there, but to go to a coffeehouse just down the street to watch the activity herself. After watching for about an hour and a half Carmen decides to send some coffee down to one of the watchers in an attempt to catch him off-guard. He simply denies her claims and goes on his way. At this point, Carmen enters the Olympian Club and goes down to the bunker where the rest of BlueSix is camped out at. She tells them of all of the strange activity on the streets surrounding the club. They begin watching the streets for the next hour. Not long after this, they receive a message from Point Zero telling them that there is someone that wishes to speak with them. On the screen appears Sir Simon York, he tells them that staying where they are is dangerous and he is willing to help them out of the situation for a favor that he will later collect. They refuse and end the communication, but not before he gives them a way to contact him.

At five past noon, a gentleman in a tan long coat enters the club. He then begins flipping a gold coin in the air while sitting at a table. Bradley notices this and immediately tells the club manager. But by this point, it's too late. The man with the gold coin flips a few of them into the room and the demonic chain creatures appear attacking anything that moves. With a slaughter occurring in the main club, BlueSix is cornered in the Bunker. The Sorcerer with the coins then attempts to penetrate the interior of the club heading to the lift leading to the Bunker. The Skull creatures attack the lift doors, when that doesn't appear to be working, the Sorcerer takes out some dust from his pocket and blows it on the doors, they immediately start disintegrating.

At this point, Nicholas decides to take Sir Simon York up on his deal and contacts him. Sir York tells Nicholas that help is on its way. Up above, a young woman cautiously enters the club, heading back to where the lift is. She kills the Sorcerer with a bullet to the head. She then helps BlueSix out of the Bunker and helps to set up a way for them to get out of the club without being arrested by the London Police or the SAS. She tells them to toss away their weapons and to lie on the floor. Not long after, the paramedics enter the club and begin taking them out to an awaiting ambulance bus. From London the bus takes them to an estate in Yorkshire, and an awaiting helicopter to get them out of the country. All thanks to Sir Simon York and his associates.

1999 November 2nd CE: Afternoon – BlueSix arrives at Paris International Airport and boards a ATZ Airship bound for the United States. With Amanda Stoller and David in tow, BlueSix is forced to take turns babysitting them two of them. For the entire voyage back, they keep Amanda Stoller sedated to keep her from attacking them again. By their point they know that she has been brainwashed to kill herself if she was ever captured.

1999 November 3rd CE: Early Morning -Three Hours from JFK – Carmen, Erin and Amada are attacked into their sleep by the Vampire; Charles Weinstein III. Erin is bitten in the Dreamlands by Weinstein, not long afterwards, Weinstein attempts to attack BlueSix in their staterooms on the airship. They are able to fight him off, only to find another vampire; Alexis Santarro waiting for them in another of their staterooms. She offers them a deal that will get them off the airship alive without Weinstein getting them. She is able to keep Weinstein away from them for the rest of the flight. Once they land at JFK, Bradley arranges for the “police” to lead them off of the airship with the help of the Arkham GROUP. Two paramedics from the Arkham GROUP take Amanda Stoller off of the airship before the rest of BlueSix. This time, something goes wrong and they are taken to a deserted warehouse near the Boston Docks where they hear the police talking about when they were going to be “iced”. Bradley is able to break his handcuffs with his cybernetic arm, just as another car arrives. Outside of the Police Van, BlueSix can hear the police officers being cut down. Bradley can just barely see two men in black suits with SMGs. Bradley makes it up to the front of the police van and grabs the shotgun, just as the rear doors are thrown open and the two men in black begin spraying the inside with UZI gunfire. Bradley escapes from the open front side door and kills one of them with a shotgun blast to the chest. Nicholas is able to escape out the front and grabs the UZI from the fallen MiB. Nicholas is forced to kill the last MiB and BlueSix makes its escape out of the warehouse.

Once on the street, Bradley calls in for Control to get them a Gate to a safehouse. Once at the safehouse, BlueSix takes some time to rest and lick their wounds. David is coming more and more withdrawn. Bradley is becoming more and more violent and gun happy. Erin goes up to the second story of the house to rest, Carmen is taken away by two Arkham GROUP men because she is becoming more and more unstable.

Both of their apartments are found broken into, in Hunter's condo they find his dog is dead and his next door neighbor is found dead and stuffed into his refrigerator. A bloody suit is found in Hunter's closet; someone is obviously trying to set him up. All of Hunter's and Wolfe's personal files are missing from their homes. When Hunter goes to his car, he finds a dead mail man in the trunk of his camaro in the garage beneath the condo. From Hunter's condo, they proceed to Erin Wolfe's office at the University of Chicago. Upon arriving at Erin's office, she finds all of her Central and South American Files missing. While waiting for Erin to return, Hunter finds out that there are APBs out for both himself and Erin for the murder.

1999, November 28th CE: Traveling to San Francisco. BlueSix arrives in San Francisco in the late afternoon. While in San Francisco, BlueSix makes contact with Raymond Albertini, the owner of Ray's Occult Books. He ends up giving them no information because of whatever contracts he has signed to protect confidentiality.

1999, November 28th CE: Evening - BlueSix enters Ray's Occult Books to gain possession of the Book of Dorrathe. While in the shop, they find the owner either dead or stoned out of this mind behind the front counter. Somehow, they set off the shops security system while proceeding to the basement where they believe the book vault to be. That's where they find Jessica Stoller going through the Vault. Capt. Davidson throws a stun grenade into the room with Stoller and knocks her cold. At this point, they can see from monitors in the basement that a helicopter is hover over the building, dropping armed men onto the roof.

1999, November 28th CE: Late Evening - BlueSix escapes Ray's Occult Books with the help of their questionable ally, Sir Simon York. But the price is they must leave Jessica Stoller behind in the book shop. BlueSix heads to the San Francisco docks where it meets a sail boat that takes them to Callaway Island just off of the coast of the US. Once at Trinity Base, Erin begins decoding the Book of Dorrathe.

1999, November 28th to December 24th CE: Erin Wolfe finishes decoding the Book of Dorrathe, but it still seems unfinished. There still seem to be pieces missing. BlueSix travels back to San Francisco for a Christmas Day party that is thrown by Commander Bishop himself as thanks for all their work and sacrifices.

1999, December 25th CE: Army of the Yellow Sign detonates two neutron bombs in the continental United States. One in San Diego California, one in Miami Florida. The total death toll is suspected to be somewhere around 4 million Americans killed. Sigma Captain Jacqueline Davidson attempts to commit suicide after finding out about the attacks on San Diego and Miami. BlueSix travels to New York in an attempt to stop another attack which they feel will occur at the United World Religions Council gathering.

1999, December 26th CE: Army of the Yellow Sign attacks the United World Religions Council gathering at the Sedgewick Hotel in New York City, detonating a bomb that kills at least 15 FEMA Agents and 10 members of the UWRC. Beta Team BlueSix infiltrates the UWRC gathering as agents for FEMA in an attempt to stop the terrorist attack, they are able to stop the killing of most of the delegates, but a bomb explodes killing 5 delegates of the UWRC along with multiple members of the FEMA Taskforce that was stationed at the Sedgewick Hotel.

Retired Air Force General, Fredrick Temerold is appointed as its first Director, charged with ending the acts of terrorism against the United States and its citizens.

1999, December 31st CE: Early Morning - The vampire Alexis Santarro contacts Bradley outside of the Refectory mansion in New York to tell him that Erin will turn into a vampire if and when she dies, she also tells them about a super-freighter that is coming into the Boston Harbor in the evening that contains hundreds of coffin sized boxes and that Charles Weinstein III is on board with one of the Crystal Skulls that they are after. Alexis also makes it known later to Erin in a dream that Erin is not like other vampires, when she feeds from mortals she spreads her form of vampirism to all of her victims like a plague. Bradley and BlueSix begin preparing for a mission to attack the super-freighter that is coming into the US via Boston. Erin Wolfe, BlueSix's Archaeologist finds out that she will become a vampire upon her death, further weakening her hold on sanity. Weinstein comes to Erin in a vision further pushing her over the edge.

Mid-day - Erin Wolfe attempts to leave the Refectory with the Arkham GROUP's copy of the Book of Dorrathe, Black Bishop; the Refectory's AI stops Erin using one of the combat drones that it had guarding her while she was reading the book. Erin rises as a vampire upon her death and attacks several members of the Refectory staff, one survives, another dies and turns into a vampire within minutes. Nicholas is forced to kill the secretary that was turned. Erin Wolfe is confined to the Medical Lab of the Refectory as BlueSix attempts to figure out what they can do about her. In the end, she is allowed to go on the mission to the ship.

Afternoon; 4-5pm - BlueSix is transported to the super-freighter by Seahawk Helicopters along with a six man Sigma Team and two Apache attack copters for air support. Once on the ship, they are attacked by the security team that Weinstein had on board the ship, also attacked by a demonic figure in the captain's quarters. Erin attempts to kill the demonic figure, in the end finding that her strength during the daylight hours is greatly decreased from what it would be at night.

One BlueSix makes it to the hold of the ship, they find all of the wooden coffins and a office trailer that Weinstein is in. Erin attempts to face Weinstein down and ends up cowering away when he dominates her. The rest of BlueSix comes to Erin's rescues while the Sigma Team repels down into the ship's hold to begin opening the coffins to the light of the sun.

Weinstein attacks Erin when she runs from the trailer, nailing her in the back with a silver knife. Bradley and Nicholas face off with Weinstein with the help of Erin once she has regained her wits. Weinstein turns into a mist and escapes, Nicholas blows open the safe in the trailer to find the Crystal Skull they were looking for. Shortly thereafter, BlueSix feels an explosion rock the ship as its engine section explodes. The Sigma Team loses 3 members to its attempt to destroy the vampires in the coffins and escapes up their repel lines to the Seahawk Helicopter hovering above the ship.

BlueSix escapes the ship, but not before planting an explosion charge near the hold of the ship. BlueSix retreats back to their Seahawk and tells the Apaches to sink the ship.

1999, December 31st CE: Evening – BlueSix lands at JFK to find Alexis Santarro waiting for them. She tells them that hell has been released on Boston, that Jean-Batiste Delarant is behind the attack on Boston and that they are to come with her to a safe place in to New England countryside. Once at the DelaVega estate, Erin meets with DelaVega/ Lord Lucien Fitzhugh aka Lord Lucien the Chronicler. They speak for about five hours, at which point Erin is able to convince Lord Lucien into giving her the Crystal Skull. It is at this point that Erin begins feeling ill again and realizing that Weinstein has followed them to the estate. Lord Lucien gives them the Crystal Skull then assists them in escaping the estate under Weinstein's notice.

2000, January 3rd CE: Early Morning Hours – Bradley, Erin and Nicholas escape into the mountains following a trail that Lord Lucien had told them about. They try repeatedly to get Control to Gate them back to Point Zero or the Refectory, but for some reason there is some kind of interference that is blocking the Gates from locking on their position. They end up following the trail for four hours to an ancient Incan temple complex in the mountains. This where Erin realizes that this is the place she has been seeing in her dreams since she started decoding the Book of Dorrathe. At the top of the temple Erin finds a second Crystal Skull hidden in the stone altar on the flattop.

While a few moments of Erin finding the second Crystal Skull, a helicopter comes to pick them up and takes them back to the airport. Once on their jet, they have Control Gate them back to the Refectory. ZIRCON

Late 1986, early 1987 a media furore blew up around a top secret project code-named ZIRCON, and the British government attempted to ban what reporter Duncan Campbell had uncovered. Campbell had discovered the planned existence of a spy satellite to be deployed over the Soviet Union, costing tens of millions of pounds. ZIRCON had been planned as a response to the 1982 Falklands Conflict and Britain's dependence on the United States, when GCHQ was forced 'borrow' the NSA's South American spy satellite for short periods to gather intelligence from Argentina. ZIRCON was cancelled in February 1987 when Britain bought into the NSA spy satellite scheme.

ZIRCON was budgeted for £100 million annually; approximately a third of GCHQ's budget at that time and approximately equivalent to MI6's. One of the main reasons for this enormous cost was that PISCES was attempting to conceal its funding within the project's estimates. Previously PISCES' funding had always been concealed within a number of secret projects but in this instance the existence of a single project was revealed. A review of PISCES funding was undertaken, and a new income source was selected: significant money could be derived from retro-engineering products from the intelligence that PISCES had uncovered in the course of its investigations. In 1989, two years after ZIRCON was blown, PISCES was reconstituted as 'Severn Aerospace Limited'.

'R' – the Director of PISCES

There have been nine R's in the history of PISCES:

1. Commander Fredrick Ramsey (1916-1932). Originally assigned to the Royal Navy's Project DELPHI. Resigned his commission in 1900. Recruited to head the Special Reconnaissance Section (MI13) in 1916 becoming the first 'R'. Died of a heart attack in April 1932. (Delta Green: Countdown pp 13-15).

2. Lt-General David Cornwall (1932-1955). As an Army Captain led expeditionary force against ghouls in France. As a Major posted as a military attaché to Istanbul he fought the Brotherhood of the Skin (see Horror on the Orient Express). Resigned his commission in 1926 under FO pressure, but joined MI13 in 1927. Assigned to head MI13 in May 1932 after the death of Ramsey. Promoted to Colonel and Director of PISCES when it was formed on 26 June 1940, and promoted to Lieutenant General in 1953. His knighthood was received in 1955, and he retired from PISCES; dying in 1961, the causes of which remain controversial. (Delta Green: Countdown pp 14-21).

3. General Stewart Collier (1956-1959). Appointed Director of PISCES in 1955. Dismissed 1959 due to possible links to the Cambridge spy ring. The 'official' reason was listed as 'ill health'. Died in 1978.

4. Brigadier-General Sir Charles Balfour (1959-1969). Recruited into PISCES in 1942. As Brigadier-General, he became the Director of PISCES in 1959. He was knighted and retired from PISCES in 1969. Current location: Private retirement home. (Delta Green: Countdown pp 21-22;40-41).

5. Sir Alan Hopkinson (1969-1975). First civilian Director of PISCES. Replaced in 1975, possibly at the 'request' of the new Prime Minister Harold Wilson in exchange for a conciliatory Knighthood. Died in 1991.
